State Awards Kent County Courthouse Construction Contract to Nason Construction

Project expected to be completed by July, 2011

Dover – Delaware Office of Management and Budget Director Jennifer (J.J.) Davis announced today the signing of a contract with Nason Construction as construction manager at risk for the Kent County Courthouse project in Dover.

“Nason Construction and the State of Delaware have a long tradition of working well together to build successful projects,” said Ms. Davis. “I am confident that this project will continue in that tradition and provide the citizens of Kent County and all of Delaware a facility for which they can be proud.”

The Kent County Courthouse project consists of the construction of a new courthouse and the connection of the existing courthouse to the new building, renovation of the existing courthouse and construction of a parking garage to serve the needs of the courthouse complex. The projected opening date of the facility is July, 2011.

“We are excited to join the State of Delaware on the construction of this much needed facility for Kent County,” said Nason Construction President Michael Berardi. “Successfully completing the new Veteran’s Home in Milford this past summer brought our team great satisfaction and we are eager to partner with the State again on another spectacular project.”

Established in 1922, Nason Construction, Inc. provides construction management, design-build and general contracting services for commercial, institutional, and government clients throughout the Mid-Atlantic. Headquartered in Wilmington, DE, Nason Construction maintains regional offices in Philadelphia, PA., and Salisbury, MD.
